

Nexus Global Solutions Port A GBP

FACTSHEET - June 2026

Strategy Objective

The Nexus Global Solutions Portfolio is an actively managed, globally diversified, multi-asset class fund. The aim is growth over the medium term, with a dual focus on capital protection as well as capital appreciation. An understanding of macro economic conditions together with detailed research into individual securities is used to construct diversified, highly liquid portfolios, able to adapt to a unique range of market conditions.

Investment Process

The fund manager's approach to investment combines strong valuation disciplines within a long-term strategic framework, together with a willingness to adjust asset allocation and stock selection in response to short term market opportunities. The Fund is not constrained by one particular investment style such as growth or value, but instead the manager believes that the best returns are achieved by correctly positioning the portfolio to benefit at all stages of each economic cycle. The manager has the mandate to search out value in all asset classes and so is well placed to judge the relative merits of a wide range of investment opportunities

Market Commentary

The month in which the U.S. and Iran signed an MoU outlining a path to peace also saw the weakest equity returns since the war began, as chipmakers paused after strong gains in April and May. Nevertheless, U.S. and Japanese equities led quarterly performance, supported by continued AI-driven strength.

Bond markets were calmer in June, with yields drifting lower after March's energy-driven rise. The ECB raised rates by 25bps but struck a measured tone, while the BoE and Fed left policy unchanged and reiterated their commitment to controlling inflation. New Fed Chair Kevin Warsh proved less dovish than expected, but maintained a steady policy stance.

Falling oil prices helped lower yields as markets anticipated reduced disruption in the Strait of Hormuz. However, shipping volumes remain below pre-war levels, suggesting risks persist. Gold, silver and bitcoin weakened alongside a stronger US dollar as markets shifted from expecting rate cuts to considering further tightening.

Looking ahead, AI investment remains a key driver of economic growth and equity markets, supported by strong demand for computing power and rapid growth at firms such as Anthropic and OpenAI. Improving business investment and credit growth are also supporting earnings and labour market resilience.

The main challenge for markets is how central banks respond to stronger growth while inflation remains above target. Although near-term rate hikes appear unlikely, we expect upward pressure on longer-term yields from rising debt issuance, fiscal deficits, defence spending and investment requirements across key sectors. Consequently, bond returns may remain constrained and provide less diversification than in the past.

We continue to favour defence and energy exposure. While a broader Middle East conflict has been avoided, U.S.-Iran relations remain fragile and energy supply disruption remains a risk. With geopolitical tensions unresolved and U.S. midterm elections approaching, we expect market volatility to remain elevated in the months ahead.
